Silver medal

THE LISTENER - GULF WAR

Michael Cooper, April 2011

4 stars

Fleshy, full-bodied wine with concentrated, ripe, tropical fruit flavours to the fore, a light seasoning of oak adding complexity, and a mouth-watering crisp finish. It's drinking well now, but still unfolding.

91 points , 4.5 stars

A powerful wine showing lovely complex aromas of citrus, fresh herb, peach and a touch of roasted nuts. The palate is concentrated and intensely flavoured with excellent mid palate weight, bright acidity and a lengthy generous finish. The wine is richer and more mouthfilling than most Sauvignons, and with gentle savoury complexity this should be a lovely wine to partner flavoursome seafood dishes. At its best: now to 2014.

Serious wine with concentrated flavours suggesting melon, tree fruit/nectarine, apple and wild herbs. Richly textured with good weight and mouth feel. A complex and satisfying dry wine with at least moderate cellaring potential. Subtle oak adds extra interest.
